Week over week

Against Aug 27 – Sep 2. Metrics with different magnitudes, so shown as figures rather than a shared-scale chart.

METRIC	AUG 27 – SEP 2	SEP 3 – SEP 9	CHANGE	READ
Staged + rated in sheet	117	178	+61	More raw churn
Qualified keeps	47	45	–2	Flat output
First touches sent	46	45	–1	Flat
Connection accepts	11	11	0	Level
Replies beyond accept	9	3	–6	Conversion fell
Proposals sent	1	0	–1	Nothing advanced
Meetings booked	0	0	0	Unchanged

Keep rate on staged rows fell from 40.2% to 25.3% — the lists got noisier, not the triage stricter.

What the numbers say

- 1 Sourcing is churning twice as hard for the same output.
Raw volume roughly doubled week over week (902 scanned across 8 lists) while qualified keeps stayed flat at 45. Keep rate on staged rows dropped from 40.2% to 25.3%. This is the pressure that produced the v10 → v11 Sales Nav recipe retune on 9/9 — the funnel data backs that call rather than second-guessing it.
- 2 The leak is accept → conversation, not send volume.
69 touches produced 11 accepts, 3 replies and 0 booked meetings. The send queue carries zero backlog — every one of the 45 keeps went out the day it was rated. Accepts held level with last week while replies fell from 9 to 3, so the post-accept step got worse, not the sourcing.
- 3 The sheet is undercounting its own funnel by roughly 40%.
Four accepts (David Melton, Yves Nordmann, Shafin Kalyan, Andrew Funkhouser) have a blank `Response Date`, and the 13 cadence nudges of 9/8 carry no date in `Follow-up 1/2/3 Date`. All of it lives only in free-text status. Computed from the date columns alone the week reads 7 accepts and 4 follow-ups instead of 11 and 24.

Warning — funnel figures on this page are reconciled by hand, not computed from columns

Every number here was cross-read against the daily reports for 9/3–9/9 to recover activity that never reached a date column. Until `AC` and `AG / AI / AK` are backfilled, any automated funnel — including `pipeline_health.py` — will read low. Backfilling those 17 cells is the fix.
